

I am opposed to allowing the Indiana No-call list to be usurped by the business relationship provision. There is no logical reason for my daily activities to be interrupted by solicitations by companies that I do business with. My right of privacy means to me that I should be able to receive only phone calls relating directly to my everyday affairs and relationships, not soliciting me for future business.